BALLOTING ON NEW POPE BEGUN BY CARDINALS

ROME, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The third and fourth ballots were taken by the cardinals of the Sacred College today in an effort to choose a successor to Pope Benedict. There was no choice, however, on either ballot.

ROME, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Voting for the election of a pope by the Sacred College today began by the cardinals. Two ballots had been taken up to one o'clock this afternoon. In neither of which any cardinal received a sufficient number of votes to elect.

O'Connell Not Due Till Monday
ROME, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The steamship President Wilson, bringing Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, to Rome, will not arrive at Naples before next Monday morning. The steamship company announced today it had received a wireless message from the vessel which showed this. The captain has decided to call at Algiers.

Marine advisers received, in this country today showed that the President Wilson, with Cardinal O'Connell on board, which sailed from New York, January 24, arrived at Gibraltar yesterday. (Thursday) February 2.

Fifty-Three Cardinals Voting
ROME, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Fifty-three members of the Sacred College assembled in the historicistine chapel today to cast their ballots in the election of the new pope. The doors of the vatican were closed yesterday with the centuries old ceremony, to remain shut until the next pontiff is chosen. Cardinal Marini, who has in Buenos Aires, was taken into the vatican before the doors were closed. It had been thought he would be unable to attend.

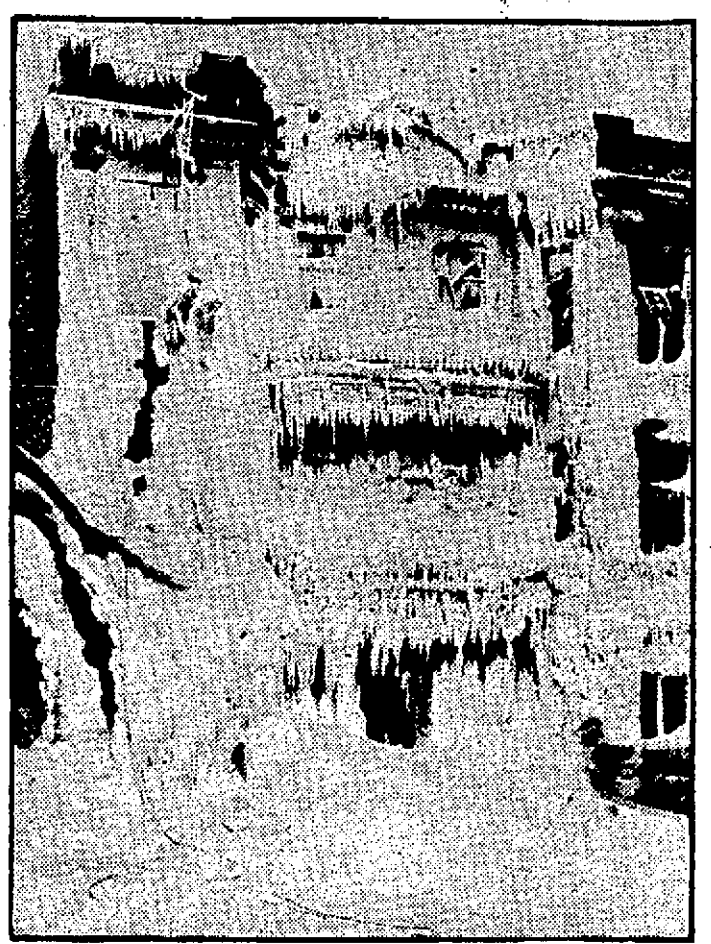

Four Ballots Daily
Four ballots will be taken daily, instead of two, as has been the rule. It is learned through the Irish college, and confirmed in other quarters. There is much interest in Rome in the effort of Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, to reach here in time to participate in the voting. The steamship President Wilson, on which he is a passenger, is not expected in Naples before Saturday. The New York offices say not before Sunday.

Plan To Guard Voting
Prince Chigi, marshal of the conclave, and Cardinal Gasparri, the camerlengo, or acting head of the church, have taken precautions to prevent the results of the various ballots from leaking out before the conclave is over. Greatest care was taken in securing the doors and re-enforcing the partitions, which shut the area of the conclave from the rest of the palace. The need for this was shown yesterday when it was reported that a newspaper correspondent had virtually closed arrangements with a waiter to take over his place in an effort to gain first knowledge of the proceedings.

ARBUCKLE JURY AGAIN DISAGREES

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The jury failed to agree and was discharged today in the second trial of a manslaughter charge against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress.

Foreman J. J. McElroy announced that the vote stood two to ten. He did not designate whether the majority was for conviction or acquittal. "There is no chance for us to agree," McElroy said. A poll of the jury was taken to determine if they could agree on further deliberations. All emphatically said "no."

Arbuckle seemed dazed at the disagreement. Neither prosecution nor defense would announce its intentions regarding a new trial. The case was put over until Monday to be set for trial. The court room was crowded for the result of the jury's deliberations.

The jurors all seemed haggard and worn. Gavin McNale, chief defense counsel, said he would make a statement later. After the disagreement the jury retired to the jury room. Corridor gossip said that the poll was ten to two for conviction.

Announcement that the jury stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal was made by Leo Friedman, assistant district attorney, and a leading attorney prosecution counsel. Harry McGovern, bailiff, made the same announcement. "We expect to try the case again," Friedman said.

Later Late Friedman, one of the jurors, announced that the two voting for acquittal were Lee Dolson and Clem R. Brownberger. "The first ten ballots were 9 to 2 for conviction. Then it switched to 10 to 2 and stayed there until the 14th ballot, which was the last one taken," Friedman said.

Work in preparation for opening the plant is being done this week. The plant has been closed for several months.

Morrow Orders More Troops To Newport

NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 3.—Relief was felt here today when reports were received that unit after unit of Kentucky National Guardsmen had detached to take posts at the Newport Rolling Mill, where disorder has broken out as a result of the strike of union steel men.

Four hundred soldiers, ordered here by Governor Edwin P. Morrow, will be on duty by nightfall in the vicinity of the mill.

Cavalry men will be used to patrol the entire city of Newport. Whether or not this step is preliminary to a declaration of military law in the city could not be learned.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 3.—With the Covington tank company in control, upward of 400 Kentucky national guardsmen today are en route to Newport, Ky., having been ordered out late yesterday by Governor Morrow for strike duty.

That the troops sent there for the second time within five weeks, will not be withdrawn soon unless order is restored completely was indicated by the order to commanding officers not to take men who could not remain there indefinitely.

The troops were withdrawn from Newport ten days ago after having been there since December 24.

Intermittent Shooting at Mill
NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 3.—Quiet prevailed in Newport early today, except for intermittent shooting in the vicinity of the Newport Rolling Mill, where a strike is in progress, and where a tank company of sixty officers and men, with seven tanks, are on guard, assisting deputy sheriffs and Newport police to maintain order.

Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning a flurry was caused when sniping from outside the mill was followed by firing from machine and riot guns inside the plant. The guns were toward the Covington bank of the Licking river. More than 100 shots were fired, it was said, but no casualties were reported, although one bullet struck a soldier's helmet.

Morally by Sympathizers
Earlier, Safety Commissioner Thomasson was taken to police headquarters in a patrol wagon after he had attempted to disperse an assembly of strike sympathizers and had been wounded.

Sheriff Louis R. Tienan then went to the scene to talk with the strikers and was grazed by a bullet fired by a sniper. Every window in the confectionery of Mrs. Mary Murphy at Ninth and Brighton streets was shattered by bullets fired last night. The occupants of the house fled to safety, deserting their home.

His in the Cellar
Mrs. Frank Bauman, who owns a grocery at Ninth and Patterson streets, took her two daughters and son and hid in the cellar after several shots had swept through the store and one bullet had just grazed her head. Many other families sought refuge in their cellars or left their homes and took refuge in other parts of the city with friends or neighbors.

Mayor Goes With Strikers
Arrival here last night of the Covington Tank Corps to assist police and deputy sheriffs to maintain order in the vicinity of the Newport Rolling Mill, where a strike is on, brought strong protest from the strikers and their sympathizers. Shortly before midnight the situation became serious when approximately 400 of them went to the plant and demanded that the soldiers leave Newport. They were accompanied by Mayor Joseph Hermann and W. C. Thomasson, safety commissioner, whose presence they insisted upon.

Blame Commissioner for Troops
The marchers, including many women, earlier had marched to the home of Commissioner Thomasson and accused him of being to blame for bringing the troops. This he convinced them was not the case, it was said.

Wanted Troops Withdrawn
Mayor Hermann joined the group and urged that the parade disband. Strikers yelled that they would not go to bed until the tank corps was withdrawn, and to placate them the mayor and Commissioner Thomasson started to the mill to talk with the guardsmen.

Since they were under orders to maintain order "no matter what the cost," it was not considered likely that they could be withdrawn without direct authority from Frankfort, and fears of an outbreak were freely expressed.

NAME OF STINNES HAS SMASHED INTO WALLS

NEW YORK, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The name of Hugo Stinnes, one to confound with in Germany, has smashed its way into Wall Street.

Big business, particularly in the steel industry, is interested, and is asking if Stinnes has designs upon the commercial and industrial activities of this country.

Various reports have come to the United States concerning plans of the German Croesus to extend his interests to this country, where he has heretofore been little known. But the first concrete evidence of his plans came yesterday with the announcement that he was negotiating with several American railroads for the sale of 15,000 tons of German rails, at a price, including freight, about $225 a ton less than the current American price of $40. A mere 15,000 tons is a relatively small offering, worth less than a half million dollars at Stinnes' price. But, it was pointed out, it is announced very fairly sized as an initial offering.

Whether Stinnes will follow up his invasion of American markets by efforts to acquire control of American industries is a question that time alone can solve. The United States is one of the few countries in the development of which he has apparently taken no hand. There have been reports that Stinnes was contemplating a visit to the United States to meet American capitalists, but no date was set for the visit.

His methods are similar to those of American financiers, obtaining control of various co-ordinated industries, not by flat purchase, but by obtaining control of a majority of the stock and using his vast wealth and credit constantly for further expansion.

Mabel Normand Questioned
These persons range from Henry Peavry, Taylor's negro house man, to Mabel Normand, motion picture actress, while others prominent in the film industry whose names were brought into newspapers in connection with the director's death, included Edna Purviance and Mary Miles Minter, also motion picture actresses.

Donny gave the police an account of his finding the body and of his spreading the alarm. Miss Normand, who was one of the last to see the director alive, told of a call she made at his apartments the night before in connection with a book Taylor had loaned her. Her chauffeur corroborated her account of the visit which included the apartment that Taylor had accompanied her to her automobile when she left. Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of a film actor, and her maid related having seen a heavy, strange man dressed in dark clothes and wearing a cap and muffler, skulking about the place.

Colonel MacNider made no comment. Colonel Bowie said today that his information came from a member of Colonel MacNider's party. The national commander who came to Baltimore yesterday to address the executive committee, left in the evening for York, Pa.

Denies She Was Engaged

Church Was Converted Into Morgue

Relatives in this city received a letter yesterday from E. W. "Bud" Gableman, Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, in which he described some of the things which occurred in that city in connection with the Knickerbocker Theatre tragedy which claimed nearly 100 victims.

Mr. Gableman described it as the most terrible catastrophe he had ever covered in his long experience as a newspaper man. He told of how the Christian Science church near the theatre was converted into a temporary morgue into which the dead were placed while the searching of the ruins in an effort to save the scores of human beings within from a horrible death went on. He said that policemen, firemen and soldiers were forced to work their way into the ruins in the face of huge obstacles of steel and concrete. At the time the city of Washington was gripped in what was probably the worst snow storm in its history and the street car traffic had been paralyzed for two days.

Two intimate newspaper companions of Mr. Gableman lost their lives when the roof of the theatre crashed in upon the helpless spectators. They were Lou Strayer, nationally known as the Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch and C. C. Brainerd, correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle. Mr. Brainerd's wife was also killed. Only three hours before the tragedy occurred or at six o'clock in the evening, Mr. Gableman had been talking with Mr. Strayer and Mr. Brainerd. They were intimate friends having occupied adjacent offices in the Post building. A few months ago the three motored together to a big barbecue tendered the Washington newspaper fraternity at Baltimore by an editor there.

Auto Set Afire

IRONTON, Feb. 3.—The Oakland touring car belonging to John Kelley, manager of the New System Bakery, on North Second street, was located a mass of charred wreckage, on a road seven miles southeast of Ceredo. The discovery was made by Detective Harry Kendall, this morning. Detective Kendall has been busy running down auto thieves and other car theft activities during the past month and has set a record for other officials to shoot at. The car was saturated with gasoline and the arsonists threw lighted matches at it until the gasoline was ignited.

A man residing in the vicinity of the place where the car was burned saw the activities of the arsonists and is now able to identify them. A C. and O. special agent is already hot on the trail and it is likely that arrests will be made in the case within a short time.

Millions of housewives use Calumet Baking Powder because of its dependability—because when they place their baking in the oven, they know it will "turn out" all right. They are confident of results because they know that no matter what they bake—pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins—the results will be the same—light, perfectly raised, wholesome foods.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

never disappoints. Don't prepare bakings with expensive ingredients and then have them spoiled because of an inferior leavener.

Have the same assurance that the majority of other housewives have.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Murderer

night before he was killed, Miss Normand said it was in answer to a telephone call from him regarding a book. She told how she had purchased some light magazines and five cents worth of peanuts, which she ate on the way.

Leading directors and others in the industry are said to be planning to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Taylor.

Cigarette Stubs May Offer Clue

A half dozen cigarette stubs offered today the key to a mystery which for 24 hours has been deeper than any developed in his work by William Desmond Taylor, noted motion picture director, slain Wednesday night at his home here. These half smoked remains found near the back door of his luxuriously appointed residence, according to investigators, gave mute evidence that some man apparently waited nervously there on the evening of the murder.

They link with statements by Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of a motion picture actor, that on the evening of the murder she heard a shot fired, and looking from the window of her home, which overlooks that of Taylor's, saw a man, stranger to her, emerge from the front door of Taylor's home, look back and apparently speak, close the door and depart.

Stranger Aids For Taylor

Another link is a statement by oil employees, in a station nearby, that an hour prior to that time, a stranger whom they described similarly, asked them where W. D. Taylor lived and they directed him to a place where the shooting later occurred. The crew of a street car added information that at a time closely corresponding to that which Mrs. MacLean gives as of the departure of the mystery man from Taylor's house, a stranger boarded the car at a stop close by, from which passengers rarely boarded a car. They described him similarly.

Not Former Servant

These revelations only served to deepen the mystery, for Mrs. MacLean said the stranger was not the former servant of Taylor, whom she knew and for whom the police are seeking. Taylor reported to the police some time ago that this man had stolen property and money from him. The porch light of Taylor's home was on and Mrs. MacLean observed him in its full glow.

The movements of this stranger coincide with the visit of Mabel Normand, motion picture actress, to Taylor's home on the evening of the murder. Taylor escorted Miss Normand to her motor car and talked a few minutes with her there. The front door of his home was open. Investigators suggest that the stranger who had been nervously smoking cigarettes while waiting for an opportunity to get at Taylor, apparently entered the apartment while the door was open and Taylor was out talking to Miss Normand.

The time Miss Normand fixed as that of her departure closely corresponds to the time Mrs. MacLean fixes as having heard the shot, an indication possibly, investigators say, that the stranger shot Taylor immediately after Taylor returned to the house and seated himself before his desk to continue work on his income tax statement.

Miss Edna Purviance, motion picture actress, who occupies a two-story bungalow similar to that of Taylor in the same court or group of buildings, informed police that she returned home about midnight Wednesday and observed lights burning in Taylor's home. She said she thought nothing of it, as she knew Taylor to be a reader who often remained up late. She said she was awakened the following morning by screams of Taylor's negro valet, who upon reporting for work at Taylor's house, discovered the body of his employer and fled shrieking down the street.

Search for Ex-Valet-Secretary
The search by police for Edward Sands, former valet-secretary of Taylor, for whom warrants on charges of grand larceny were obtained by Taylor several weeks ago, extends to Fresno and Sacramento, according to the police, although Sands was known to have been here recently.

Jewelry stolen from Taylor's residence was pawned in Fresno and Sacramento and the pawn tickets, with Christmas and New Year's greetings, were returned by mail to Taylor. Taylor in reporting this to the police recently said that he recognized the handwriting as that of Sands.

Robbed of Jewelry

Sands, according to a report made a year ago by Taylor on his return from Europe, robbed him of jewelry, clothing and an automobile. Sands, Taylor then reported, had been in charge of the Taylor house and had taken many things and money. A warrant on two charges of grand larceny was issued August 3.

The second robbery of the house reported to the police was several weeks ago. The rear door was smashed in and the place thoroughly ransacked and a stock of distinctive gold tipped cigarettes and jewelry taken, according to the report to the police. A week later the negro houseman found a gold tipped cigarette of this variety on the doorstep which Taylor reported to the police as an indication that the robber had revisited the scene.

Pawn Tickets Returned

This was followed by a receipt of a letter signed "Alias Jimmy V.", apparently mailed in Sacramento, in which tickets of jewelry pawned in Fresno and Sacramento were inclosed.

25 Miners Lost Lives In Blast At Gates, Pa.

GATES, Pa., Feb. 3.—Twenty-five miners lost their lives in the explosion which wrecked a part of the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coal company yesterday, according to an official announcement today. Twenty-two bodies have been recovered. The other three are buried under a fall of slate, and can not be reached from the entries in which rescue crews have been working. Rescue teams were sent early today to the Edenborn mine and expected to work their way through all workings to the section of the Gates mine affected by the explosion.

All the bodies have been removed to a mortuary at Mansoutown. Relief was expressed by mine officials that the toll may mount higher, as there may be other miners, apart from the three or four other men unaccounted for, who were killed by an explosion in a section of the plant yesterday. Reports indicated last night that there were at least 20 men in the section at the time of the explosion, all of whom could be accounted for with the exception of three or four men.

No hope was held out for the miners who could not be found.

The cause of the explosion is undetermined as no attempt has been made in that direction, all work being bent toward rescue or recovery of bodies. From the appearance of the bodies, it was indicated, however, that the men had been asphyxiated, as none of them was livid.

Meanwhile, it was said, investigations would be initiated by the county and coke company as soon as the plant was regarded as safe.

THEATRICAL

Galvani At The Sun

It is not probable that an attraction looked to appear at the Sun Theatre has created as much talk and excitement as the engagement of Galvani, the great hypnotist, who has been secured for three nights, commencing Monday, February 6. The theatre-goers and the public in general are already in a fever of excitement, awaiting the coming of this remarkable demonstrator of the science of hypnotism, and heralded, acknowledged and admitted by others in his line as the leader of all in this mysterious art, he will surely play to large houses while in the city.

Galvani is without doubt the most phenomenal hypnotist of modern times, performing as he does, facts which to those unfamiliar with the science, seems even beyond the powers of the occult. Besides the instructive worth of his performances, he furnishes more amusement than a minstrel show and comic opera combined.

Cape Dress A Spring Novelty

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK.—Tumbling about in the shops which are already showing spring things I find a marked tendency toward clever little cape costumes of silk. Simple they are, and usually quite void of trimming, depending upon smartness of cut for their charm.

Occasionally one sees a saucy flashily lined cape serving no further purpose than that of ornament, hung at the back of a blouse.

The Robbins garment shown is of cotton crepe, with cape lined in white crepe de chine. The cape is cut with an irregular hem line and a loose crush collar which ends in long slashes. The latter can be tied at the front or worn thrown across the shoulders.

Skirts—like the skirts of last summer—are inclined to be full, and like this one, many of them wear wide tucks toward the bottom.

Profit For State From Canal Lease

COLUMBUS, O., February 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—Under a new canal lease entered into by the state and the American Steel and Wire Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, is to realize a net profit in excess of $30,000, according to a statement issued at the governor's office, from canal property.

The new arrangement calls for the payment by the Cleveland company of an annual rental of $15,000, for water and land rights, for the maintenance of the canal by the company and for the assumption by it of responsibility for furnishing water to seven other concerns which pay the state $10,000 a year rental. The company is to spend $25,000 at once on necessary improvements.

Under the former lease the state received an annual rental of $12,000, but the state was required to pay cost of maintenance and improvements, which almost entirely wiped out the rental money, according to the statement.

"Country Boys" Too Much For City Slickers

Relative to the Ironton-South Webster basketball:

It was a speedy, hard-going game that Ironton High's floor team dropped to South Webster Wednesday evening on the South Webster high school gym floor by the score of 22 to 20.

The Ironton boys put up a speedy hard game throughout, with Blackie taking the leading role and Hance one of the hangup stars of the fray. The country boys had an excellent passing team, able to shoot for baskets from difficult angles and make them count and, though the locals rallied greatly in the closing stages, they were unable to overcome the lead held by the Websterites. A good crowd was in attendance, a number of fans accompanying the team.

The high school boys and girls teams will go to New Boston Friday evening to play the speedy floor teams of that place. In recent contests here the boys team defeated New Boston while the visiting girls took charge of the little red-middled outfit.

MANLY REVIVAL

Another good crowd enjoyed the services at Many church last night. The solo by Mr. De Bruin and the duet by Mr. De Bruin and Ora Blair gave the meeting a good start. The sermon was listened to with rapt attention and when the appeal was made two persons came forward and surrendered themselves to Christ, making fourteen in all this week.

The subject for tonight is "Salvation, how to obtain it." We call this Sunday school night. It is hoped that every member of the school will be present. Special reservations will be made for classes to sit in a body. The sermon and Mr. De Bruin's solo will be especially adapted to Sunday school scholars. Come on, and let's make this the best night so far. Services 7:15.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A portly lolly-pop met them.

After Nauey and Nick and Bussins arrived at another part of the land of Udd-the-Air called the Land of Good Smells. As Bussins had explained, all good smells go up like smoke, and I'm sure we could tell the fairies that unpleasant ones do too. If you wish to avoid anything of the sort, my dears, on the eighth boiled onions or sauerkraut are cooking for dinner, never, never, never go to the attic, but seek refuge down cellar. It will be much more pleasant.

As the three of them stepped out on the little elevator into this new wonderful part of Fairyland, it seemed to the Twins that Thanksgiving and May Day and the Circus had all got mixed up and come here together. For they could smell roast turkey and plum pudding, violets and roses, peonies and pink lemonade all at the same time.

A portly lolly-pop met them and her husband is away working?

ANXIOUS READER.
She may not be as bad as the evil-minded women who are watching her and peddling the fact all over the city. It is absolutely necessary for married men and women to speak to each other occasionally, and the person who seems a scandal every time they see them talking is stirring up trouble for herself here and hereafter.

Dear Dolly—Do you think a man cares for a girl if he will come to see her, stay awhile, and then go on to a party and leave her at home?
Sure he does. If he didn't care anything for her he wouldn't come to see her. If she wasn't invited to the party, he couldn't do anything else.

Looking Ahead

BY NORRIS QUINN
(Copyright, 1922, NEA Service)
DETROIT, February 3.—Henry Ford is trying to make three dreams come true.

ONE—Doing away with the necessity for great cities and getting the people—even industrial workers—back to the soil.
TWO—Hastening the arrival of an era when heat, light and power will be so abundant that "it will be wasteful not to use them"—this by intensive development of "water power."
THREE—Revising our financial system so "money won't have the power to stop things."
Ford told all about his three dreams and how he hopes to make them come true in an interview here.

Doom Of Great Cities
"The great cities are doomed," the auto magnate said. He made a gesture as if he were actually sweeping the cities away.
"I don't mean they'll fall into ruins immediately. But they'll go sooner than you think. A few will stay. They'll be big distributing and assembling points—not congested centers."

"The people will go back to the farm and small town. They're headed that way now."

"The city's served a useful purpose. It's taught people how to live in groups and close communities. When they go back to the country they won't tolerate unpaved streets, badly equipped schools, defective sanitation."

"The coming small town will have all the advantages of the big city and none of its drawbacks."

"Then will factory workers commute to and from their work?"

"Not at all!" Ford answered. "Their work will commute to and from them! They'll complete the work in their village workshop—then it will be sent to one of the big assembling and distributing points."

Already An Accomplished Fact
"Now I want to hear someone say it can't be done—"

"Because I've already done it!"

"I'm experimenting in several small Michigan towns. Not 30 miles from Detroit. I've established a small shop run by water power in an old mill. Work is sent down there, finished and brought back here."

"The workmen live under semi-rural conditions. They have gardens. They may keep chickens and cows, if they wish."

"Entertainment? The social life of the small town will adjust itself all right. People will get up their own shows, develop their own entertainment. There'll be fewer spectators and more actors."

Water The Golden Fluid
Ford paused. He'd been talking rapidly. Then—

"I spoke of using water power to operate the little experimental plants in Michigan," he went on.

"Let me tell you water is the golden fluid of the future. It will give us our light, our heat, our power."

"And we can't exhaust it. As long as it rains, rivers will flow and they'll supply power endlessly."

"When water power possibilities really are developed, the supply of heat, light and power will be so great it will be wasteful not to use all you can."

"And it will cost little. A river charges nothing for flowing. And it costs but little to make the power and deliver it to the user."

Reform Of Money System
Then Ford turned to currency reform, the one of his three projects that's had wide publicity.

"Money's valueless except to move things," he said. "You can't eat money. It's useful only as a medium—just like it's used."

And Ford said the wise that dangled from his telephone.

"But money doesn't tell its function. When you want to use it, you have to go to a money lender or to buy it."

"What does 'medium' mean?"

"That lawyers are trying to make the supply of money approximate the supply of gold."

"Why, to make business run on gold is like making passenger traffic on a main line dependent on facilities of a local branch line with one train a day!"

"That's why I believe in issuing money backed by gold wealth."

Opportunity At A Shoal
Ford paused again.

"Now, at Muscle Shoals," he said, "there's a chance to work on all these things."

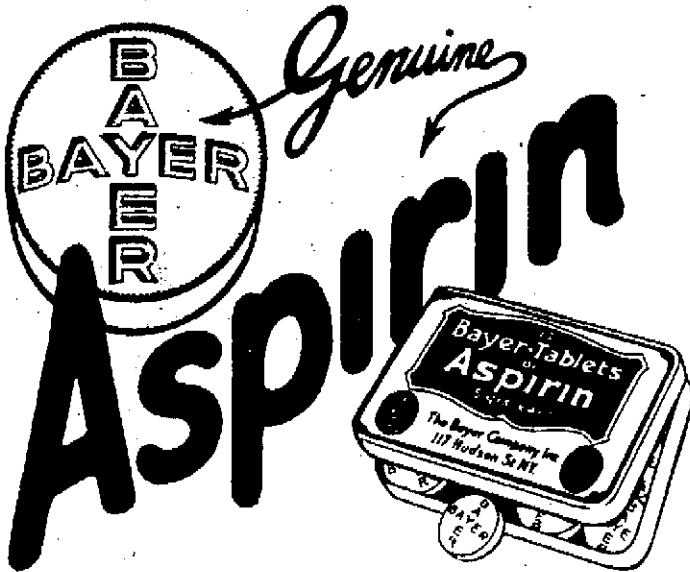

"That whole country could be laid out in semi-rural communities."

"And water power possibilities are just waiting to be developed. The Tennessee river is second in power possibilities only to the Niagara."

"That power should be used to manufacture southern raw products right there. Instead of shipping them half way across the continent again."

"And Muscle Shoals could furnish the opportunity to show the government how to develop public works without paying three times their cost in interest charges. But our public officials will have to see the idea clearly first."

DETROIT, February 3.—(By the Associated Press) Three bidders will appear tomorrow at the public sale here of the Lincoln Motor Company. Indications that representatives of Henry Ford would be the only bidders for the property were upset when the federal court accepted certain checks for $250,000 from two additional prospective purchasers. Notices of intention to bid at the sale came this morning from J. I. Benge, Detroit, attorney, said to represent New York interests, and George P. Hudson, vice president of the Bank of Detroit, of which Mayor James C. Connelley is the controlling stockholder.

The court announced the property would not be sold for less than $250,000.

MACLEOD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dave Sanders, range rider on the D Bar Lazy R outfit, and his pal, Bob Hart, rescue their employer, Emerson Crawford, from the hands of a rival ranchman, Bradley Steelman. This deed ensnares Sanders in the heart of Joyce Crawford, the ranch owner's daughter. Dave arrives in Denver where he has traced Ad Miller, a gambler, and his confederate, George Doble, who have stolen Sanders' pet pony, Chiquito. Dave discovers his horse in a corral.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

DAVE WHISTLED. The pony pricked up its ears, look round, and came straight to him. The young man laid his face against the soft, silky nose, fondled it, whispered endearments to his pet. He put the bronco through its tricks for the benefit of the corral attendant.

"Well, I'll be doggoned," that youth commented. "The little pinto sure is a wonder. Acts like he knows you might well."

"Ought to. I trained him. Had him before Miller got him."

"Bet you hated to sell him."

"You know it." Dave moved forward to his end, the intention to get possession of the horse. He spoke in a voice easy and casual. "Saw Miller a while ago. They're talkin' about sellin' the pinto. Haves him and his partner, Doble. You to saddle up and show what Chiquito can do."

Dave chuckled, swung to the saddle, and rode to the gate of the corral. Two men were coming in, and by the sound of their voices were quarreling. They stepped aside to let him pass, one on each side of the gate, so that it was necessary to ride between them.

They recognized the pinto at the same moment Dave did them. On the heels of that recognition came another.

Doble ripped out an oath and a shout of warning. "It's Sanders."

A gun flashed as the pony jumped to a gallop. The silent night grew noisy with shots, voices, the clatter of hoofs. Dave fired answers to the challenges which leaped out of the darkness at him. He raced across the bridge spanning the Platte and for a moment drew up on the other side to listen for sounds which might tell him whether he would be pursued. One last solitary revolver shot disturbed the stillness.

His flight had no definite objective except to put as much distance between himself and Denver as possible.

Day broke over valleys of swirling mist for below the rider. The sun rose, and dried the moisture. Dave looked down on a town scattered up and down a gulch.

He left Chiquito at a livery barn, after having personally fed and watered the pinto, and went himself to a hotel.

Three or four men were standing on the steps of the hotel talking with the proprietor.

"That's him," the hotel-keeper said in an excited whisper.

A brown-faced man without a coat turned quickly and looked at Sanders. He wore a belt with cartridges and a revolver.

"What's your name?" he demanded.

"Sanders—Dave Sanders."

"I want you."

"So? Who are you?"

"Sheriff of the county."

"What'd'ja want me for?"

"Murder."

Dave gasped. His heart beat fast with a premonition of impending disaster. "Murder," he repeated dully.

"You're charged with the murder of George Doble last night in Denver."

"The boy stared at him with horror-stricken eyes. 'Doble? My God, did I kill him?' He clutched at a porch post to steady himself. The hills were sliding queerly up to the sky."

CHAPTER XIII

ALL the way back to Denver while the train ran down through the narrow, crooked canyon, Dave's mind dwelt in a penumbra of horror. It was impossible he could have killed Doble, he kept telling himself. He had fired back into the night without aim. He had not even tried to hit the men who were shooting at him. It must be some ghastly joke.

It remained with him, in the background of his mind, up to and through the fact that he had taken a life, not the certainty of the punishment that must follow.

It did not take the lawyer whom West engaged long to decide on the line the defense must take. "We'll show that Miller and Doble were crooks and that they had wronged Sanders. That will count a lot with a jury," he told West. "We'll admit the killing and claim self-defense."

The day before the trial Dave was sitting in his cell cheerfully reading a newspaper when visitors were announced. At the sight of Emerson Crawford and Bob Hart he choked in his throat. Tear brimmed in his eyes.

Nobody had been kinder to him than West had been, but these were home folks.

He gripped their hands, but found himself unable to say anything in answer to their greetings. He was afraid to trust his voice, and he was ashamed of his emotion.

"The boys are for you, strong. Dave. Steve says he wouldn't worry none of you'd got Miller, too," Bob breezed on.

"That's no way to talk, son," reproved Crawford. "But don't you get downhearted, Dave. We're at town to stand by you to a finish. It ain't as if you'd got a good man. Doble was a mean-hearted scoundrel. If ever I met up with one, he's no loss to society. We're going to show the jury that, too."

They did. By the time Crawford, Hart and a pair of virgins who had been trapped by the sharpers had testified about Miller and Doble, these worthless had no shred of reputation left with the jury. It was shown that they had robbed the defendant of the horse he had trained and that he had gone to a lawyer and found no legal redress within his means.

But Dave was unable to prove self-defense. Miller sneaked doggedly to his story. The cowpuncher had fired the first shot. He had continued to fire, though he must have seen Doble sink to the ground immediately. Moreover, the testimony of the doctor showed that the fatal shot had taken effect at close range.

The jury found him guilty of murder in the second degree. The judge sentenced him to ten years in the penitentiary.

When Bob Hart came to say goodbye before Dave was removed to Canon City, the young range-rider almost broke down.

"We're gonna stay with this, Dave. You know Crawford. He goes through when he starts. Soon as there's a chance we'll hit the governor for a pardon. It's a damn shame, old pal. That's what it is."

"You know it," Dave moved forward to his end, the intention to get possession of the horse. He spoke in a voice easy and casual. "Saw Miller a while ago. They're talkin' about sellin' the pinto. Haves him and his partner, Doble. You to saddle up and show what Chiquito can do."

Dave chuckled, swung to the saddle, and rode to the gate of the corral. Two men were coming in, and by the sound of their voices were quarreling. They stepped aside to let him pass, one on each side of the gate, so that it was necessary to ride between them.

They recognized the pinto at the same moment Dave did them. On the heels of that recognition came another.

Doble ripped out an oath and a shout of warning. "It's Sanders."

A gun flashed as the pony jumped to a gallop. The silent night grew noisy with shots, voices, the clatter of hoofs. Dave fired answers to the challenges which leaped out of the darkness at him. He raced across the bridge spanning the Platte and for a moment drew up on the other side to listen for sounds which might tell him whether he would be pursued. One last solitary revolver shot disturbed the stillness.

His flight had no definite objective except to put as much distance between himself and Denver as possible.

Day broke over valleys of swirling mist for below the rider. The sun rose, and dried the moisture. Dave looked down on a town scattered up and down a gulch.

He left Chiquito at a livery barn, after having personally fed and watered the pinto, and went himself to a hotel.

Three or four men were standing on the steps of the hotel talking with the proprietor.

"That's him," the hotel-keeper said in an excited whisper.

A brown-faced man without a coat turned quickly and looked at Sanders. He wore a belt with cartridges and a revolver.

"What's your name?" he demanded.

"Sanders—Dave Sanders."

"I want you."

"So? Who are you?"

"Sheriff of the county."

"What'd'ja want me for?"

"Murder."

Dave gasped. His heart beat fast with a premonition of impending disaster. "Murder," he repeated dully.

"You're charged with the murder of George Doble last night in Denver."

"The boy stared at him with horror-stricken eyes. 'Doble? My God, did I kill him?' He clutched at a porch post to steady himself. The hills were sliding queerly up to the sky."

CHAPTER XIII

ALL the way back to Denver while the train ran down through the narrow, crooked canyon, Dave's mind dwelt in a penumbra of horror. It was impossible he could have killed Doble, he kept telling himself. He had fired back into the night without aim. He had not even tried to hit the men who were shooting at him. It must be some ghastly joke.

It remained with him, in the background of his mind, up to and through the fact that he had taken a life, not the certainty of the punishment that must follow.

Witherow Guilty; Mercy Recommended

After deliberating more than five hours, the jury in the case of Curtis Witherow, former C. & O. N. telegraph operator, returned a verdict Thursday afternoon, finding him guilty of first degree murder as charged in the indictment. A recommendation that mercy be extended to the defendant was attached to the verdict, and this action alone saved the convicted man from paying the extreme penalty.

When the jury through its foreman, W. J. Liston, reported shortly after five o'clock that a verdict had been reached, Witherow was hurriedly brought over from the jail and took the same seat in the court room which he occupied throughout the entire trial, which started Monday morning. The prisoner did not glance toward the jury as it filed into the box nor did he show the least concern when Clerk Ed Cunningham read the words which will in all probability send him behind prison bars for the remainder of his natural life. There was no demonstration when the verdict was read as the crowd which had filled every available space of the court room throughout the trial had dispersed and there remained only a few spectators present at the time, including his wife, Mrs. Lovie Jane Witherow, and sister, Mrs. Myrtle Gwynn, of Blinton, but they displayed no outward sign of emotion and made no comment.

The relatives left with Attorney R. F. Kimble and Witherow was taken back to the county jail to await disposition of a motion for a new trial. Later the prisoner in a conversation with his relatives, who called at the jail, expressed his surprise over the verdict, declaring that he expected it to be of a lower degree but that he hoped to get out of prison in 15 or 20 years. He calmly advised his wife what she should do, urging her to keep their home at Sciotoville and to try and keep the children together. He appeared to be resigned to his fate but refrained from discussing any events of the tragedy or the trial. Witherow did not display any resentment and made no comment concerning the persons that testified against him.

The case was sent to the jury yesterday just before noon following Judge Thomas' able charge in which the court pointed out to the jury in a clear and concise manner the law applicable to the case. During its deliberation the jury took a number of ballots and it was learned that a majority of the jurors voted for the first degree offense with mercy from the outset and finally won over one juror who held out for the death penalty and one who wanted the degree of crime fixed at second degree.

Attorney Kimble, who made such a strong fight for Witherow, gave notice of the filing of a motion for a new trial, but when Judge Thomas was informed that counsel did not desire to urge the motion the prisoner was brought into court Friday morning for sentence. Attorney Kimble later showed up and declared that there had been some misunderstanding as he desired to press the motion so Judge Thomas deferred passing sentence until the motion is passed upon.

An unusual incident occurred last night after the verdict had been returned when Gus Rittinger, one of Witherow replied that he believed in religion and that he would be a better man.

The crime for which Witherow was convicted occurred at the Fred Burhoe home at Sciotoville on New Year's night when he shot and killed Hugh Nichols and a few moments killed the latter's wife, Leon Nichols.

This is the greatest age ever attained by a dog here within the memory of some of our oldest inhabitants.

MERCY HOSPITAL CLINIC IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Damage estimated between $1,000 and $1,500 to the Mercy hospital clinic and about $250 to the Selby property was caused by fire that visited the office room of the clinic about 12:30 Friday morning. Luckily it was discovered before it had eaten its way up the stairway back of the office, an alarm being turned in and firemen responding before the flames had obtained any greater headway. The clinic proper was not damaged and was open as usual today.

Ralph Osborn, who was at John and Gallia streets, sawed wood burning, and thinking that it was the Carroll shoe shop or the Unger dry cleaning place on fire, went around these buildings to investigate, on reaching the west side of the structure occupied by these firms, he discovered the fire in the office of the clinic. The office room was a mass of flames. He turned in an alarm from Box 53 at Gallia and Bond streets, the seventh street and Gallia street firemen responding.

The office destroyed is the small room recently built to the east side of the two-story dwelling, the porch having been enclosed to provide the office room.

An overheated stove caused the fire, the worst damage being just behind the stove where the fire had found its way through weatherboarding, plaster and into the stairway. The plaster board on the office walls being ready fuel for the flames. Besides the office room and stairway, a storage closet under the stairway was damaged by water and smoke. Medical supplies in this closet were a complete loss. When the glass windows in the office were broken so the firemen could get to the fire, the flames shot across the narrow passageway and came near communicating to the office of Dr. A. R. Moore on the east. Firemen used chemicals and water and prevented the flames from igniting the weatherboarding on the nearby building.

The entire house was filled with smoke when the firemen arrived and for a while it looked like the fire had communicated to other parts. The office is separated from the main hallway of the clinic on the west and the children's room on the north by weatherboarding and plaster and also plaster board. They prevented the flames from eating through to the main part of the house.

The damage to the office furniture and medical supplies is covered by insurance. The property is also insured.

Hazelbeck will insure you.

Germany's Railroads Tied Up By Nationwide Strike

BERLIN, February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Germany's railroads, which have almost completely tied up all kinds of traffic since Wednesday midnight, became even more complete today when the Berlin branch of the railway union joined the ranks of the strikers this morning. It was estimated today that 75,000 engine drivers now were striking.

Passenger and freight traffic in north Germany was at a complete standstill. Undelivered mail has begun to accumulate and postal authorities are maintaining aerial service for urgent mail and passenger purposes.

Efforts to maintain the milk and food supplies for Berlin have failed and the newspapers have considerably reduced their size and number of editions. The government's manifesto declaring the strike illegal has aggravated the situation.

To Appoint Hundreds Of Income Tax Men

The collection of United States internal revenue taxes is a big job. The Civil Service Commission said in a statement issued today that more than 26,000 Government employees are engaged in this work, 7,500 of whom are attached to the Income Tax Unit. This latter figure includes more than 5,000 auditors and inspectors of income tax returns who are employed in Washington and in the field.

Notwithstanding this large force, the Civil Service Commission states that the Bureau of Internal Revenue needs several hundred more auditors and inspectors for the Income Tax Unit, and that an examination to fill these positions will be held throughout the country on March 8. The entrance salaries offered range from $1,800 to $3,000 a year. Advancements will depend upon demonstrated efficiency.

New appointees are given a six-week course of training in the technicalities of the income tax law and are paid full salary during such instruction.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or from the Civil Service Board at the post office or customhouse in any city.

Chinese Expected To Voice Protest Over Whole Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(By The Associated Press)—China's reply to the Japanese declaration of readiness to give up entirely Group five of the celebrated "twenty-one demands" as well as economic privileges secured under resulting treaties in Manchuria and Mongolia was expected to bring an end today to the arms conference. It was planned also to put into treaty form today the series of resolutions relating to China for formal adoption at a plenary session tomorrow, at the close of which it was expected the Washington conference would adjourn sine die.

The signatures of the plenipotentiaries under the program would be attached to both the naval and Far Eastern treaties on Monday, at a single ceremony at the state department. Although in announcing before the Far Eastern committee yesterday the readiness of their government to give up entirely Group five of the "demands," the Japanese pledged abandonment of that part of the demands program which China most strongly objected to as calculated to impair her sovereignty, the Chinese reply today was expected to voice renewed protest over the whole program.

In addition to the pledge of readiness to withdraw the treaty reservation by which Japan retained the right to press further the unaccepted Group five, which would have required among other things that China employ Japanese political, financial and military advisers in her central government, the Japanese yesterday promised two other concessions relating to the "demand" treaties. Under one of these she would open up south Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia to the international consortium and the other was to renounce all intention of insisting that Japanese advisers be employed in these territories in political, financial or military matters.

Prior to Ambassador Shidehara's statement of the Japanese position on the "twenty-one demands" the Far Eastern committee had disposed of the Chinese eastern railway situation by adopting a resolution merely declaring that arrangements for "better protection" of the road should be worked out in the near future through the regular diplomatic channels.

Return of Phantom Army of Yank Dead Near End

THE PERMANENT AMERICAN SOLDIER CEMETERY AT CHAUMONT, FORMER GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE A. E. F.

LOADING YANK DEAD FROM A TRANSPORT AT NEW YORK.

BY RALPH HAYES
Former Secretary of the Secretary of War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The grimace of American soldier dead from overseas is ending.

Upwards of 42,000 bodies from the dead of the A. E. F. have been brought home. A few more than 200 are yet to come. Approximately 131,500 will remain permanently in Europe.

From the war's beginning the government's policy regarding the return of military dead has been uniform. It expressed the hope that families might approve the internment of soldier relatives in American cemeteries abroad, but the option of leaving or returning the body lay with the nearest of kin.

When the Armistice came, with bodies having been buried where they fell, there were 2400 American burial places—and many isolated graves—along the front lines. That number has been gradually reduced.

Eventually there will be one main American burial place in Britain—at Brookwood in Surrey, about 24 miles from London—and six in France—to be known as the cemeteries of the Alsace-Marne, Meuse-Argonne, Somme, Oise-Aisne, St. Mihiel and Suresnes.

Of the French American burial places the Meuse-Argonne is the largest. Upwards of 20,000 graves are there.

At two other places besides the Brookwood burial spot in Britain, a few American bodies are likely to remain. One is the Isle of Islay, where Tascenia victims were washed ashore, and the other is at Clive, in the valley of the Thames, where Lady Nancy Astor, member of Parliament and native of Virginia, made her Italian villa into a war-time hospital.

A committee of the National Fine Arts Commission has prepared plans for landscaping and construction work on the American burial plots abroad, and designed a standard headstone to mark each grave.

The stone is of American white marble, 28 inches long and 10 inches wide at the top. In a circle on the face of the stone is cut an emblem of the soldier's religious faith.

The task of repatriating thousands of bodies and of concentrating other thousands was—and is—immense. After much time and argument America and France finally reached an agreement permitting evacuation of our dead from the "zone of military operations."

Bringing back the phantom army has been the work of the quarter-master general's department. Its cemetery division at Washington operates through the machinery of the graves registration service in France. There are few previous undertakings with which to compare its accomplishments.

GET YOUR FREE

$1.00 PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS from your druggist today.

IF YOU ARE THIN AND EMACIATED AND WISH SOMETHING TO HELP YOU PUT ON FLESH AND INCREASE YOUR WEIGHT.

Yeast Vitamine Tablets—should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron. Without organic iron, both food and Vitamines are absolutely useless. As your body cannot change inert, lifeless food into living cells and tissues unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood, organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy. Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes thru your body without doing you any good.

Arrangements have been made with the druggists of this city to give every reader of this paper a large $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free with every purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron.

'Sherlock Ohms' Is Marvel Mechanical Detective

THE OSCILLOPHONE IN USE AND TWO VIEWS OF ITS INVENTOR, DR. ALBERT A. ABRAMS.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—"Sherlock Ohms" will be the scientific detective of tomorrow. Such is the latest declaration of Dr. Albert A. Abrams, noted scientist and physician, who has attracted international attention through diagnosing diseases of persons thousands of miles away by means of a single drop of blood and through employment of the blood cell in settling parentage disputes.

But with the perfection of the oscillophone, announced here, Dr. Abrams takes a step even more startling.

This intricate electrical device, Abrams says, cannot only reveal all human emotions, diagnose disease, translate blood specimens into life stories—but it can assume clairvoyant powers if provided with a single fragment of handwriting.

Realizing the future value such an instrument would have to lawyers and police, Dr. Abrams is about to make his first public demonstration of its possibilities to the San Francisco Bar Association and police department.

From a bit of handwriting, say those who have watched tests, it has been possible to trace the nationality of the writer, the writer's state of health, his approximate age and, in a general sort of way, his characteristics.

The revolutionary character of such a device in disputes over the mental condition of the signer of a will, in the search for a forger, is readily seen.

The oscillophone has been built along the lines of the wireless, the messages of disease, parentage and emotions being carried from a circular box to one of a series of wires arranged over the top.

There they are interpreted through the use of the tuning fork or resin dipped stick. A dial, registering the number of ohms of electricity being consumed, figures prominently.

Paralleling the wire is a long measuring stick. When the instrument is set and the handwriting or blood placed in the circular container, a tuning fork is run over the wire.

As it passes along, a sudden change in tone is the signal to stop and look. Then a code is referred to, and is interpreted according to the numerals on the measuring stick. All this is worked out along the lines of the celebrated Abrams vibration theory. Man is merely an electric mechanism and an extremely sensitive device can catch all of his vibrations, Abrams says.

The blood carries these vibrations; he holds, and hence he used blood specimens for some time in his operations. Each disease carries a certain vibration and each nationality and each emotion.

That handwriting is susceptible to interpretation is due, Abrams says, to emanations from the finger tips that heretofore have been given no significance.

LACK OF CONTROL SPOILS CAREER

Lack of control has always been Jim Shaw's one big fault.

The possessor of remarkable speed and a great curve ball, Shaw seemed destined to develop into another Walter Johnson when he broke into the American League.

Lack of control, however, has always handicapped Shaw. At times he seemed to have overcome the fault. However, they proved only dashes in the pan.

Of late years a bad right knee has also affected his work. The injury has prevented Shaw from taking his proper stride in the delivery of the ball. That of course greatly affected his control.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

Great Record For Jewish Lad

Cinderella Brings Children Million

BY ROY GIBBONS
CHICAGO—Three Chicago children—Robert Simpson, 13, Charles Simpson, 11, and Genevieve Simpson, 8, just got a $1,000,000 fortune.

"It was our skill that won it for them," say the lawyers their parents retained.

"It was Cinderella," say the three children.

Now which is right?

You see, eight years ago the children's grandfather died. His will left them $1,000,000.

But other relatives seized the bequest, maintaining the grandfather was not in sound mind.

"The Simpson children's parents started a legal battle."

But as soon as the children were old enough to understand, they employed different tactics.

"We knew a fairy came to Cinderella and gave her everything she wanted," Genevieve says. "So we just imagined we were talking to Cinderella and the fairy godmother."

For a long time they kept that up. And the lawyers kept up their fight.

Then—

Came a court decision giving the children the right to claim their property.

COURT HOUSE

Petition Dismissed By Court

After hearing the evidence in the divorce and alimony suit of Arlene Combs against Eljah Combs in Common Pleas court Friday Judge Thomas dismissed the petition and urged the couple to quit their quarreling and live peacefully together.

The evidence disclosed that both the plaintiff and defendant had considerable temper and they had much difficulty in recent months and which resulted in the plaintiff leaving her home on Pond Creek last September.

She charged cruelty and neglect and claimed that he had inflicted bodily injury upon her and threatened to kill her. They were married in McGuffin county, Ky., nearly 36 years ago.

Attorney Russell McCurdy for the wife and Attorney Guy Blair for Combs.

George McClain of Third street, employed by H. A. Link and company, arrested several days ago on an indictment charging non-support, was released from custody Friday when Judge Thomas gave him another chance on his promise to make weekly payments for the support of an illegitimate child of whom a jury decided some months ago in a bastardy proceedings that McClain was the father.

Judge Thomas pointedly told McClain that he must keep up the payments and what he might expect if he failed to obey the order.

Candles Are Blessed

February 2nd, because when Christ was forty days old, He was presented in the temple and was declared by Simeon to be "a light to the revelation of the Gentiles." Luke 2:32.

A burning candle is a symbol of Christ. Christ is the Son of the Virgin Mary; wax is the product of the virgin bee. Christ has a human body and soul; a candle has a wick imbedded in wax. Christ has the divine nature, which is expressed by the burning flame.

Candles are used in divine worship, because they consume themselves and are complete sacrifices for God. Candles stand for the light of revealed truth, divine faith, the Christian religion.

They express joy and represent the lamp of good works. At funerals they burn to show respect to the dead.

They are blessed with prayer to implore God's protection from evil and are burnt in homes for this intention.

These ads inserted daily and paid for by several Catholic business men of Portsmouth, who believe in their religion.

The howdah in which the prince rode down his first tiger is the same as that used by King George in 1911.

Soldier Bonus Legislation To Carry Provision For The Raising Of Necessary Funds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Soldiers' bonus legislation now under discussion by the house ways and means committee will carry a provision for raising the necessary revenue to finance it, Chairman Fordney announced today after a conference with President Harding at the White House. Whether the money will be obtained by internal taxes or the use of the proceeds from the refunded foreign debt, or both, remains to be determined, Mr. Fordney said.

Mr. Fordney expects the bill to be ready for the house within two weeks and thinks only a few days will be required for its passage. Senate Republicans in party conference already have voted to press the bonus legislation, but they have not decided upon details of the measure, particularly the means of raising the money.

Because of the uncertainty as to the number of former service men who will take the cash features, the house committee is having difficulty in determining just what the cost will be for the first two years. The experts who have come before it have estimated that the estimated 50 per cent of the men, is little more than a guess. Some estimates are as high as 80 per cent.

Arguments for and against the tax on beer as a means of raising funds for the bonus were heard today by the committee and at their conclusion members indicated very clearly that such a tax was not to be considered.

Representative Green of Iowa, the ranking Republican, declared that aside from the constitutional question involved the arguments against legalizing this ale of beer was so compelling that the proposition could not be entertained. Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat, said it was a waste of time to talk about raising revenue when two thirds of both the house and senate were opposed to the beer and light wine proposition. The argument for 2.75 beer was made by Levi Cook, a Washington attorney, who said he spoke for the public. He declared no man could become intoxicated on such beer and that its legalized sale would do away with bootleggers and moonshiners and would dissipate much of the industrial unrest.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, opposed the suggestion, arguing that congress under the 18th amendment could not legalize the sale either of 2.75 per cent beer or of light wines.

John K. Taylor

John K. Taylor died Tuesday evening from pneumonia, after an illness of a week. He was a native of South Carolina and was born March 15, 1854, and came to Montana and located at Cable, where the family lived for many years. About two years ago he was stricken with paralysis, but recovered from that and for several months had appeared in better health than usual, until stricken with his last illness. He is survived by his wife and nine children, five of whom are residents of Boulder; O. M. Taylor, Keene Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Fitcher, Mrs. Clyde Danby and Grover Taylor; Lewis Taylor of Spokane; Arthur Taylor of Portsmouth, Ohio; Mrs. Robert Tedford, of Santa Anna, Cal.; Damon Taylor who is in the U. S. navy; all of whom have been notified but the distance is so far they were unable to get here.

Mr. Taylor was married on Sept. 2, 1885, to Miss Charlotte Smith, a native of Ohio, at Gregord, where he was engaged in mining for many years and later the family moved to Boulder where they have been residing ever since. The funeral was held from the Methodist church Friday afternoon and interment made in the Boulder cemetery. Boulder (Montana) Weekly of Jan. 21.

Mrs. John K. Hastings of Sciotoville has returned from Sargent, O., where she was called by the illness and death of her father, W. L. Talbott, who died January 26. He was the last of his father's family of fourteen children, and was one of the best known citizens of the lower Scioto Valley. He had lived all his life at the old farm home, reclaimed five generations ago from primeval forests by his fore-father, which at that time was a Northwest territory.

Harding Stresses Economies Made By The Administration

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Announcing prospects of a surplus of governmental receipts over expenditures for the fiscal year as a result of economies in administration, President Harding, speaking today at the second business meeting of the government officials, declared he doubted "if any government in the world has made a more persistent and conscientious endeavor to cut down its expenditures and institute economies and restore sane and normal ways again" than has the American government.

The president and Director Dawes, of the budget, who followed him, announced to the meeting composed of more than a thousand governmental officials of high and low degree that direct savings of $32,000,000 and indirect savings of more than $104,000,000 has been accomplished in less than six months through the operation alone of the budget bureau's coordinating agencies.

Mr. Harding expressed the further opinion that the efforts on the part of the government toward economy had been reflected among the people at large.

"I can not but feel that the government has in this budget organization set an example of care and thrift that has helped greatly to make saving fashionable. If to some extent the government has been a leader in so praiseworthy a cause, we ought all to be gratified to have had a part in the affair. Much of the extravagance of government has been due to a lack of sense of individual responsibility and the same is true in the corporate business and the private affairs of people. If our efforts here shall set a standard and inspire an ambition for greater economies and higher efficiency, we shall have served not only the government, but the whole public particularly well. Perhaps our example will be of service to the world."

The president reiterated his opposition to deficiency appropriations and made a plea for an understanding among officials of the government that "the common good, not departmental advantage, is the end at which all of us must aim."

Discussing the prospects of a surplus instead of a deficit, as was generally expected, Mr. Harding appealed for a continuation of the "careful and painstaking effort which has been made continuously during the first half of the year," and added:

"In a business so great as that of the national government, unexpected receipts will not infrequently swell the total of calculated revenues. It seems likely that this will be true during the current year. But despite this possibility, it now seems probable that the restrictions upon expenditure which have been possible by reason of the administration's general policy and your splendid co-operation would have resulted in a surplus of receipts for the year. The prospect of such a surplus when compared with the estimated deficiency of $24,500,000 that was outlined in the budget figures submitted to congress in December, is certainly an occasion of much satisfaction to all of us."

Will Provide New Office Rooms

Work within a short time will be started on the renovation of the second floor of the Duerr property, occupied by the Staebler jewelry store and the Portsmouth Auto Supply Company on Gallia street. There are now two flats, three rooms, above the Auto Supply company's room and four rooms above the Staebler store, and these will be converted into four big office rooms. Mr. E. J. Staebler, who occupied the flat over his place of business, recently moved to Sixth street.

Entrance to the new office rooms will be through the Haldeeman building entrance on Gallia street.

Bathing Suit Fun

It Is the Clothes Liberty That Starts the Seaside Sports, and These Take on Extraordinary Variations of Novelty as the Pictures Manage to Show

Dancing on the Beach Is Possible in Any Costume, but the One-Piece Bathing Suit Seems Made for the Fox Trot.

By Barbara Craydon

WHEN my editor commissioned me to make an investigation of the bathing beaches up and down the Atlantic Coast I really think he had an idea I would bring in a much different story than I have. He thought, I dare say, that all of this talk about one-piece bathing suit shockers must mean that the sights along the shore would be rather interesting and a trifle giddy.

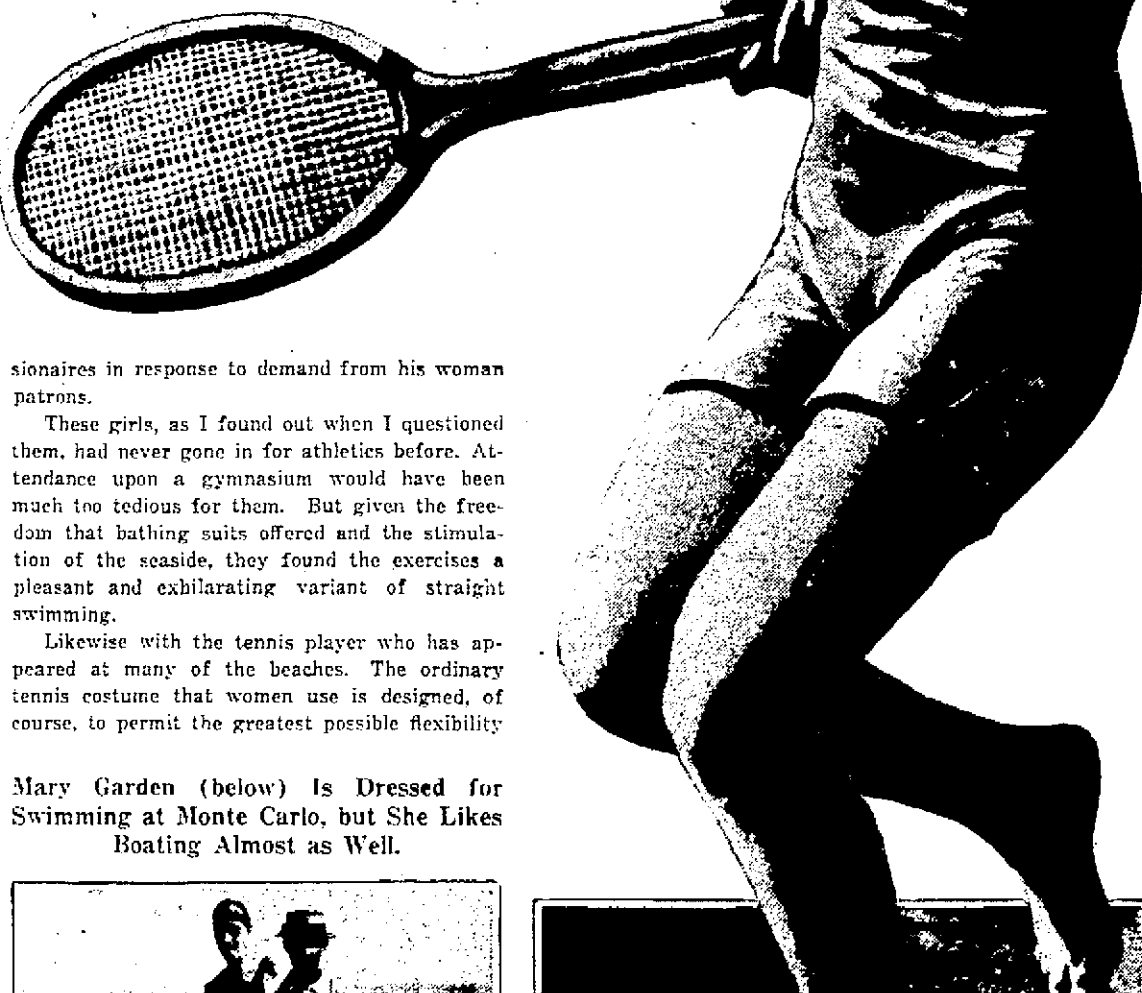

They were and are interesting—as for their being giddy, that depends upon the eye and mind of the beholder. But after my series of visits to the shores I am prepared to say without condition or equivocation that America is at her sanest and healthiest by the sea. For I saw not only millions and millions of beautiful swimmers—that is, they were beautiful and they swam beautifully, too—but I saw all manner of incidental fun and activity that had been induced by the great freedom one feels when a bathing suit is donned.

So the story turns out to be, not a tract on the anti-social effect of exposing an inch too much of sheer cuticle, but a dithyramb on the fun to be had in a bathing suit.

The sea itself—with its restlessness, its majesty and its ever-present dignity—may have something to do with the outburst of sportiveness that comes as soon as one hears its beat and sees its white-capped merry men. The sailor, if he is articulate like Joseph Conrad or Capt. Marryat, can impart some of this joy and grandeur that the sea inspires. As for myself, I will have to rest content with telling of the innocent and gleeful high jinx that I saw, without bothering much about its latent psychological causes.

A Wooden Sea Horse

At quite a number of beaches handball courts have been established a long time, but in the main these have been patronized by men only. The women before this season had never taken much interest in anything save swimming and sunning themselves. When I saw a group of handsome girls leaping over and upon a series of wooden horses, such as one sees in a gymnasium, I thought they must have been professional swimmers going through a daily schedule. I found, however, that these apparatus had been placed on the beach by one of the beach owners.

of muscles in order for her to throw her body into the many positions demanded by the game. But the tennis costume has never been invented which equals the bathing suit. Obviously, though, one could play on a hard court in one's bare feet, but the hard packed sand is as easy on the feet as a carpet and it makes a wonderful court in the bargain.

Seaside tennis originated in England, they say, where the bathers are very conservative and mixed bathing is an exception rather than the rule. This, perhaps, is proof of its soundness as a funmaker. The British are not as eager for novelties as we are. Sea beach tennis must have been irresistible.

Returning to the sands, however, I found a large number of bathers of both sexes who made a practice of skipping rope before going in for afternoons. Others ran foot races, leaped hurdles, played prisoners base or baseball.

Nor was the type of activity confined to the fair player is not only sure of playing her best game, but when it is through, all she has to do is to discard her racket and she is ready for her bath. It has all sorts of advantages.

Down at a North Carolina resort I saw the human sailboat for the first time, although this fad was originated at Venice, Cal., by Mrs. Robert H. Steeley of Salt Lake City. In order to enjoy this kind of sailing the swimmer must be able to float, although expertness is not required. She simply fashions a sail about a yard and a half high and of about a physical. I found two girls playing chess on the sands. Chess is no game to be taken lightly. The best players think nothing of planning their moves ten and fifteen ahead. Yet strangely enough both of these girls declared that they no longer cared about playing chess except when they were at the beach.

"I think better and I feel better," one said. "My mind is clearer and I therefore enjoy greatly the kind of mental effort required to play chess. And I am playing a better game now than I ever did. It's the sea. It inspires me. And after I have played a good, stiff game of chess I like the plunge in the surf all the more."

"As Innocent as Healthful"

I must admit that this young woman was exceptional. Most of the others were moved to exercises that were anything but intellectual, but on the other hand, were about as innocent and as healthful as you could find. All of which brings up once more the thought of the sea as the finest and most inspiring sort of a companion.

Warming up for the Surf with a Little Rope Skipping.

I remember reading somewhere of that group of seafarers who had wandered far inland and who, upon once again reaching the shore, fell upon their knees and shouted aloud: "The sea! The sea!"

I can understand their ecstasy. Anybody can who has ever been near the ocean.

Of course every one cannot command the ocean as the dwellers upon the Atlantic and the Pacific Coast. The next best thing, of course, is the fresh water river or pond. But the best thing of all is to be some place where you can wear a bathing suit most of the time.

If the time comes when I can't reach the ocean or the river or the old mill pond, I'll still be able to get something of a sensation by sitting in front of a plate of water with an electric fan turned on my back. Meanwhile, if somebody would start a movement to make the bathing suit a part for any kind of a summer occasion he would be conferring a great boon on humanity.

PLANNING BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT FOR GIRLS; MANY TEAMS ARE ELIGIBLE TO ENTER

Will Be Held In New Boston Gymnasium On February 25

Plans have been completed for a high school girls basketball tournament to be held in the New Boston gymnasium on Saturday, February 25. The tournament is being planned by the New Boston Athletic Association, which has mailed out letters to various high schools having girls teams in this section of the state inviting the schools to enter their girls' five in the tournament.

This is the first tournament of this kind to be held for girls teams. Tournaments for boys' five have been held for several years at Ohio University.

The elimination contests and semifinals will be played in the morning and afternoon and the final contest to decide the champion Ohio girls' basketball team will be played in the evening. A preliminary game to the championship match will be played between the boys' second teams of New Boston and Wheelersburg high schools.

The letter of invitation sent out by the New Boston High School Athletic Association, is as follows:

"Your girls' High School Basketball team is hereby invited to attend the first annual Girls' Basketball Tournament to be held in New Boston, Saturday, February 25, 1922, to determine the championship of Southern Ohio.

"Winners that play in the final contest are to receive each a pennant as a first and second prize—pennants to

HUNTINGTON BEATS P. H. S. 21 TO 16

Holding Players In Bondage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Minor league organizations which are refusing to recognize the "selective system" for advancing their players to the major leagues as advocated by those two organizations are "violating all ethics of Americanism and holding their players in bondage," United States Senator George Wharton Pepper, framer of the major and minor league agreements and rules, declared here today.

Expressing his views on a question which is expected to be prominently discussed at the meeting here in a few days between Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, and the American league club owners, Senator Pepper said it was one to which he had given exhaustive study and that he was convinced there is no better arrangement by which a player can advance from one league to another and finally reach the majors than that as provided for under the national agreement and now advocated by the two parent organizations.

Senator Pepper said he had been "astounded" to find that by a compilation which he made at one time covering a short period of years, the major leagues had paid for the purchase of players from minor leagues more than $10,000,000. In many instances, he said, this had helped the "little fellow" finance what otherwise have been a disastrous season.

Teams Opposed To College Players

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—A proposal that college and university authorities furnish certificates to players who are no longer eligible for intercollegiate competition and that professional football teams engage no college players without such certificates, was made here today by Joe E. Carr, president of the National Football League. Carr said, would be glad to abide by such a ruling which, he said, would stamp out the practice of college men playing on professional football teams before they have finished their college activities. "Our league, of which such teams as Taylorville and Carlinville, which figured in the Illinois-Notre Dame scandal, are not members, has no desire and in fact is unalterably opposed to the use of college men who are still eligible for intercollegiate competition. We will wipe out this evil sooner or later, but we could do it immediately if assured co-operation on the part of college coaches."

Recently John Sheridan, one of baseball's leading critics, in commenting on the progress of baseball, made the statement that the major league umpires of today ought to pay to get in the ball park.

Mr. Sheridan was drawing a comparison between the task that the umpire of 25 years ago was up against and the present-day woes of the umpire.

"True, baseball has progressed, and with it the position of umpire has improved in some ways. I have had 17 years of major league umpiring, and can appreciate some of the progress that has been made. However, in other directions umpiring has become much more difficult, simply due to the larger stakes that are being played for."

In the old days there was no such thing as a world series. Neither was there a sum allotted for the finishing of second and third in the two major leagues.

The coming of the world series increased the woes of the umpire. However, it in no way compares to the added duties that were brought about by the division of money to the first three clubs.

With the athlete first comes the salary, then the base hits. Last year Washington lost third place by about a half game. That half game meant about $800 to each Washington player. In the major leagues today every game is a battle, because until the last few weeks usually about six clubs have a chance to finish inside the money.

Then there is the world series. Every now and then one reads what soft picking it is for the umpires. I wish every one who so thinks could umpire for a season and work in a world series.

In this connection I have in mind the series of 1921. Olin Child in his first game worked perfectly. There wasn't a ball or strike dropped. In his second game he gave another fine exhibition, only one ruling was questioned.

In the first inning of that game, Child called a pitch of Walter Hays's ball. It was a curve. Hoyt kicked loudly. It would have retired the batter and ended the inning without a score had it been called a strike. The Giants made a run in that inning and that run was the game.

Child worked two great games, yet because of one disputed decision will hear a lot about it next summer.

To those who think umpiring is soft, I would suggest they take a whirl at it, for it pays pretty good money. R. E.

The Huntington Herald Dispatch says:

"Plans are on foot to match the Portsmouth Selects, the greatest basketball team between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, with an All-Star Huntington cast, including 'Stead', 'Smart', 'Hoge', Workman, 'Dopey', Workman, Frank Workman and 'Bones' Barringer. Would this be a hit?"

Ironton Teams
In New Boston

Tonight, in the high school gym at New Boston the New Boston high boys and girls meet the Ironton high boys and girls. The girls' game will be the curtain raiser, starting at 7:30 sharp. These teams are evenly matched and two last games are anticipated. Bleachers have been built in the New Boston gym to take care of 500 fans.

Exhibition Game
Tomorrow night Baseman and his Selects will go to Peables to play an exhibition game of basketball. Peables has no team that can compare with the Selects and for this reason have booked them for an exhibition game. The Selects will use their regular lineup just to show the Peables basketball fans a real court show and how the game is played.

Challenge Accepted
Rhi Wilson of this city has invited a challenge at Jack Major, who has been bowling over all comers. Major has accepted and the two will clash at the next league show.

Gibbons Wins
Tommy Gibbons was up to his old tricks over in Boston last night. He knocked out Pat McCarthy in the fourth round, the fight being stopped by the referee.

Same Old Alibi
The London Register says: "The 'Alibi' Justus and a party of Ironton folks were at the rinkside at Portsmouth last night. They said that Billy Ailes, who was matched against 'Kid' Smith, a well known Ironton boy, was far too large. Such snatching is bound to hurt the game. A difference of from three to five pounds 'should' be more than that should be prevented by the promoters."

And truth to tell, Ailes weighed just three pounds more than Smith.

EDDIE'S FRIENDS Getting An Earful

Batsche Impressed With Major And Ailes

Fred Batsche of Cincinnati, who handled Battling Chink here, was much impressed with the work of Jack Major and Billy Ailes and particularly the former. He says Major is a corner and with a little more speed he will be able to hold his own with any of the flyweights in Ohio. Major is an ambitious lad and keeps in good physical trim. He is bound to rise in the fistie world.

Sun Crew Wins

The Sun-Times bowling match that had been the bone of contention about the new office of the two forces for two weeks, was settled Thursday afternoon on the Peasant alleys, when the Sun bowlers won total pins. The first two games went to the Times bowlers, but in the last game The Times crew lost their punch and fell down, while The Sun took on new life and rolled up a total that was big enough to overcome the margin set up by The Times in the first two games.

The Times put their hopes in Hewitt, who was the only one who had experience on the hardwood, but he fell down when it came to hanging up high scores and then and there the hopes of The Times crew went glimmering.

Besides Hewitt, Harold Martin, Ted Gordley, Anson and Embler were on The Times team, while The Sun used Walker, August, Barr, Johnson, McNay and Morgan.

The totals were:
Morning Sun... 547 541 565-1653
Daily Times... 552 538 518-1608

Must Meet Expenses

The Baseman Selects must have funds to defray their expenses to Washington, C. D., where a section tournament will be held in connection with the state basketball tournament that will be held in a few weeks. The section tournament is now being arranged to eliminate the weak teams in each section. The section champions will then meet to fight it out for the state championship.

To secure funds to pay the expenses of the trip to Washington, C. D., the Selects will give a dance next Wednesday night in Baseman's hall. The tickets for the dance have already been placed on sale by the players. Baseman's orchestra will furnish the music for the dance.

The Selects should be backed to the limit for the boys will defend the name of Portsmouth against many other independent basketball fives in the state in these tournament matches.

McGraw's Ukase
Manager McGraw rises to remark that not a single Giant will be taken South, who has not signed his contract. "They must be in the fold to play on my team," is McGraw's latest pronouncement.

Inter-City Tournament
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—Six Columbus amateur boxers left for Cleveland today, where they will meet a team of Clevelanders tonight in an inter-city tournament. Boxers who form the Columbus team are: Johnny O'Keefe, 168 pounds; Mike O'Dowd, 150 pounds; George Clark, 165 pounds; Hoyt Burnett, 135 pounds; Jack Shuffie, 145 pounds; and Hal Chenoweth, 158 pounds.

Starts Monday
The second half of the 88th girls' bowling season starts Monday. New officers have been elected to direct the league for the second half. Miss Florence Peterson has been chosen president and Mrs. Kathryn Volkmann secretary to take the place of Miss Ada Kress and Miss Helen Adams who resigned the office.

Having Lots of Fun
IRONTON, Feb. 3.—The Portsmouth-ironton bowling teams just exchanged victories and defeats. The River City outfit goes down the long ashcan route here about the same time it is traversed at Portsmouth, and the local pin crumbers are having a good time out of their inter-city match.

Special Matches
Two Selby first team will take part in special matches tomorrow night. While the Selby first team is meeting the Masone five on the Selby alleys, the Selby second team will oppose the K. of C. five on the Peasant alleys.

The Selby first team will include Bruno, Bauer, Faught, McArthur and Barrman. The Selby second team will be composed of Johnson, Haken, T. Hartman, Fritz and Solario.

Blair Will Be On The Next Card
"While we lost a little money on our last show, we had sufficient funds in the Battery B treasury to meet all bills," Manager Pat Shoemaker said last night. "Without Blair on the card and the prices being too high, the fans would not turn out. At our next show the prices will be lowered and we will look for an old-time crowd."

JUST CHATTER

A bitter rivalry in athletics between two town teams has created a sensation in western college circles.

As a result of this rivalry, athletics at Illinois and Notre Dame have received a severe jolt.

Seventeen players, stars in all branches of sport, have been suspended because they indulged in a post-season football game under assumed names.

For years there has been a great rivalry between the towns of Carlinville and Taylorville. In 1920, so the story goes, Carlinville won from Taylorville, 10 to 7, at Carlinville.

Last fall the two teams were scheduled to play at Taylorville. The Carlinville sports, desirous of again triumphing Taylorville, hit upon the idea of leading up with Notre Dame players. It was the intention to financially "clean out" Taylorville.

To digress for a moment and tell you something about these two towns that have stirred up all the trouble in western intercollegiate athletics.

Taylorville is credited with a population of 6506. It is located 26 miles southeast of Springfield, the state capital. It boasts four mills, two carriages and wagon works, paper mills, agricultural implement works and a couple of banks. All of which make Taylorville look like a lively burg.

Carlinville, according to the census, has a population of 5212. It has a tile and monument works, brickyard, coal mine and is a trade center for the agricultural district. Blackburn College, a small institution, is located there.

The word was passed to the Carlinville sports to bet the family plate on the home team. The secret, however, leaked out and a number of college stars would be imported for the game.

Consternation reigned in Taylorville when the news arrived via the gossip route. It was preposterous to think of sending the home town boys against nationally famous stars.

Then a few of the leading citizens, among them being the proprietor of the leading grocery, the keeper of the tin and the owner of the flour mill, set about to strengthen their defense.

Taylorville landed nine of the Illinois stars. The Taylorville sports were wise enough to get a good quarterback, Carlinville overlooked that feature. It was the quarterback who decided the issue. Sternmann, the Illinois quarterback kicked three field goals.

Like Base Running
A great many fans regret that base running is being so much slighted in the last four or five years in the majors. A scarcity of good pitching, and a lively ball took much of the value out of the possibilities of brainy base running. Teams constantly played for a cluster of runs rather than only one.

After Local Dates
The Buffalo Orioles, the world's champion basketball five that played here last year has written to Manager Baseman of the Selects for two more dates this season. The games will be arranged for Portsmouth and Huntington. The Huntington five will contain several local players.

This Is No Con
Kid Conn of Newport, Ky., speaks up and says he will light any local boxer tipping the beam at the 155 mark. Who will take on Conn at the next fight?

Krohn Vs. Wiggins
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Feb. 3.—Harry Krohn, of Akron, Ohio, will meet Chuck Wiggins, local light heavy weight, in a scheduled ten-round boxing contest here next Monday night in place of Eddie O'Hare, of New York.

Nig Is A Dope
Duke Ridgley says that Nig Blair is disporting himself in a nice little "spring haircut." Nig is a regular dude these days.

May Stop Boxing
Mayor Campbell is again on the warpath in Huntington. The Herald Dispatch this morning says:

Mayor C. W. Campbell yesterday afternoon ordered a police investigation into the activities of local athletic clubs with a view of suspending their operation if any violation of the state boxing law is discovered.

His action, he stated, is the result of an anonymous letter in which the writer charges "fight promoters" to "cease their illegal operations under the guise of regularly constituted athletic clubs. Such practice, if discovered, will be vigorously prosecuted and steps taken to suspend operation of the clubs, he stated."

Can a pitcher get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession? With runners on first and third, the pitcher made such a move. What is the proper decision and what are the rights of the runner? Is the ball-man in any way affected?

UNTIL two years ago the rules permitted the pitcher to get on the rubber without having the ball in his possession, provided he made no motion to pitch.

That has been changed. The pitcher now has no such right, and if he does so, he commits a balk. All runners advance a base, the runner on first moving to second, the runner on third scoring. The calling of a balk in no way affects the batter.

The United Brethren certainly showed a surprising reversal of form last night, when they took three straight from the Trinity Cubs 21-16, 21-8 and 21-20, boosting themselves into second place. The third game was a sizzler. Bruce doing splendid ball and shooting ball in, Rost started for the Trinity Cubs, doing some very nifty work.

All three games were hot, as the scores show, especially after each had won one and the scrap for the rubber was on. It was a sizzler alright. Homer Selby kicked ball in his old time. Selby and Stevenson did nifty field work, while Pearce and Edwards did the heavy work for the Phi Psi and Prosty Williams made several nice runs in service. The Phi Psi put over the final point, winning game and match, 21-20.

THE FIRST THING IS SAFETY

IN providing for a settlement of debts due from foreign countries, congress, yielded to pressure from the White House, has rejected a provision that would make any arrangement subject to its approval, before becoming effective.

This is letting down the bars, it is not guarding the interests of the nation, of its people.

Indisputably, there is a powerful movement afoot to cancel European debts. Warm resentment may be displayed against any such suggestion, but the movement is active and it's dangerous. More than that it becomes doubly dangerous when no safeguard is erected against it. Delegating the powers of congress to individuals or commissions is false in principle. In situations like that which now present itself in the loans of our governments to its war associates it takes on a most sinister cast. England is at the bottom of the project to cancel international war debts all around and the Harding administration is too much cheek by jowl with her to place any such discretion, not only discretion, but power.

We may now look for an active propaganda, calling for the renouncement of foreign debts, to be started. It will succeed too unless there be a tremendous and unceasing popular protest to the contrary.

ANSWERS IN THE AFFIRMATIVE

IT remains for the supreme court of Ohio to give the conclusive answer to the query: Can good come out of Nazareth?

This tribunal, by its approval of the notorious Davis state ripper bill that caused a bitter row in his own sacred councils.

It answers a conundrum correctly, however, and stamps out a most obnoxious practice, by sustaining a statute, which provides that no anonymous matter, reflecting injuriously upon a candidate, shall be circulated during a campaign, and imposing somewhat proper penalties for violation.

In the case before it, it was sought to justify such practice on the ground that the statute was an abridgment of the constitutional right to free speech. The court finds this position untenable. The law does not in anywise limit freedom of tongue. It merely says that if a man has the truth to tell he shall print it over his own signature, and if he wants to lie and malign he must come out in the open and make certain his liability. In a word it draws the distinction between liberty and licentiousness.

Perish the thought that any lively prospective of campaigns to come had place in the mind of the honorable court.

LEAVES A VACANCY

SENATOR KENYON has accepted the circuit judgeship to which he was appointed by President Harding and the senate has done the graceful thing by instantly confirming his nomination.

Beyond question Kenyon will be a credit to the judiciary. He is learned and experienced in the law and has a strong sense of justice. With all this considered, however, his selection was unfortunate. There are many lawyers, who would make capable judges, but there are not many men that are so suited to be senator as is Kenyon. He is strong and courageous in opinion and has the spirit to follow his convictions, without tremor as to the effect they will have on him personally.

The chances are altogether remote that Iowa will send him like to replace him.

Between snow storms on the Atlantic Coast and earthquakes along the Pacific, the Ohio valley appears not only as a picturesque resort, but an entirely safe one.

What do you think? Talk is this week that the Peerless will get that new station, next year, if she will only put up a hundred thousand or so to make an overhead crossing.

The administration is sure all the arms limitation conference agreements will go through like they were greased. Seeing what was done with the foreign debt bill no reason appears why they shouldn't.

The urge of the hour is for one to lay down just what is the division between the Dail Aircann, the Sinn Fein, the Republican and the provisional government division in Ireland.

Glory hallelujah! The sixth district member has got an important measure through congress. It provides for the issuance of more than a handful of Grant memorial coins.

Washington is going to investigate its theatre horror. In the absurd old days when they didn't have architects, construction engineers, superintendents of construction, city inspectors and a lot of other wonderful superlatives around and about a building, one never heard of a roof collapsing. And they do say they had some snows in those times.

And also the white cloud must have its shadows. English troops are rapidly evacuating Ireland, but right on their heels troops the sad finding that their going is a heavy blow to some towns and robbery and violence of all sorts has broken out.

Somehow the disarmament conference refuses to act as swiftly and beneficently as is being constantly professed for it.

Congressman Burton doesn't appear to be decided as to whether or not he will run for senator. That's unfortunate, provided he be not nominated. With him and Pomeroy as the candidates the state would have its best Republican and its best Democrat to choose between, knowing either would give a honorable, manly service, which can't be said of a lot.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, February 3.—Thoughts, while strolling around New York; crowds gazing at Equimaux children. There's a job—carrying a stuffed eagle. A cream white overcoat. And it looks real natty. The wages of sin is often success. Behold the glittering politicians in their club lounge. W. L. George, the English novelist. Wears spats. Hot dog.

Broadway's two types—cuties and sweeties. But the old fashioned girl in the end. Six dollars worth of palms and an abandoned cellar—and lo! a smart cafe. Whatever happened to the outfit board craze? An old time pugilist pulling taffy in a soda shop window.

A red cloaked woman driving a taxi. Snore drifts as murky as Broadway's morning thoughts. Montague Glass. Looks like a barrister. Alphabetical electric sign spelling out the virtues of a wash rag. Only an occasional bub-bled girl.

Druggies drug stores and all night millinery shops. I just missed that open coal hole. Nothing in the world so shabby as New York car bars. A curio shop. Everybody looks in the window but no one seems to buy. I'd like to go up to Central Park and see the polar bears sleeping in the moonlight. But there might be footpads. And my voice doesn't carry well.

What a night for romance! And when I get romantic my wife always smells my breath. Heigh ho! Lackaday! The great apartment houses of Central Park South. Dazzling with light. Everybody is giving a party these days. A bottle of gin and a violin—and whoops, my dear!

That old pennant vender has stood in front of the Athletic Club for 30 years. Suppose club men "Say it with peanuts." Not a light in the Vanderbilt mansion. O, very well! I have another engagement anyway. Drive fast to the automat, James.

Six months ago Lillian Lorraine suffered a fractured spine in a fall down a stairway at the Fifty-Fifty Club. It was believed that she would never walk again. But she has come back as a star in a music and dance play and the first night was the mightiest ovation ever given to a stage artist. Lillian Lorraine is perhaps the most celebrated of the Broadway beauties. Artists have praised her figure in superlative terms ever since she made her stage debut. So noisy was the first night welcome that one critic left in a huff. "I got tired of the claque and Miss Lorraine's bacque," he explained.

"Blind George" who has held forth at his little newspaper kiosk in Herald Square for 20 years is going to move to Forty-Second street and Sixth Avenue. When the dismantling of the building that housed the Herald began "Blind George" tapped his way to work one morning and found his stand gone. He didn't complain. "Life is like that," he said.

"I shall start all over again." The contractor came and fixed up a temporary stand and in the meantime the old customers heard of his plight and bought a fine stand for him at the Bryant Park corner. "Blind George" knows thousands by their voices. He was once an architect with a promising future when blindness came to him.

Nearly every well dressed man along Fifth Avenue wears a boutonniere—usually a white carnation—these days. So much so that the price of a single carnation in the best florist shops is now 50 cents. A few months ago they sold at 15 cents. As a rule the boutonniere has been worn only with evening clothes save by rather elderly men.

Which Are You?
Composed by Miss Faltz Wolfe
(East Operator)

One day a worried business man
Knew not what to do.
For a local bank was failing
And he had all to lose.

To get word to his partner
Was the very thing to do.
For good times now were flying fast
And trouble would ensue.

He lifted his receiver
And waited for the voice.
That would, if Fate decreed,
Reward him for his choice.

But the A operator
Who should accept his call
Was looking around and, in fact,
Was doing nothing at all.

The operator close beside her
Saw the signal light.
His looking around and, in fact,
She knew calls must be answered,
Each one in its turn.

She picked up a brass-tipped cord
And passed it down the line;
The girls applied good team work.
They heeded all the sign.

The caller's party answered.
His credit now was saved.
And gratitude to "central,"
Was on his heart engraved.

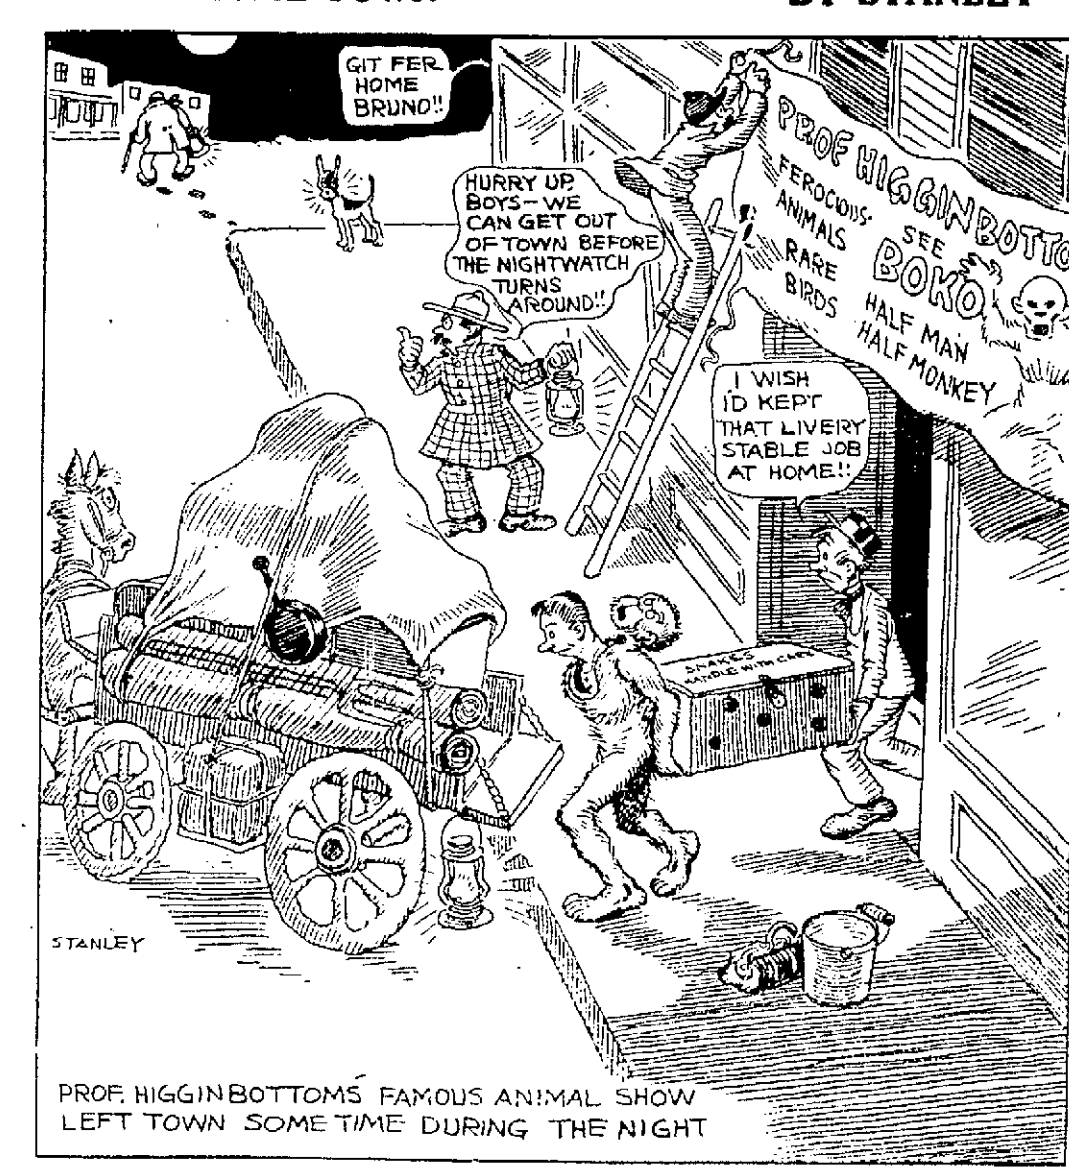

Now none of us know
At which moment we may
Save a fortune, who knows.
It may be today.

How Big Was It?
"I don't know whether to accept this testimonial or not," mused the hair restorer man.

"What's the matter with it," demanded the advertising manager.
"Well," explained the boss, "the man wrote, 'I used to have three bald spots on the top of my head, but since using one bottle of your hair restorer I have only one.'—Stray Stories.

Thelma's folks had been taking her to vaudeville quite a bit and the youngster enjoyed the dancing acts especially.

One day she was out in the back yard playing with her dolls when she suddenly noticed a sparrow taking its daily dust bath—ruffling out its feathers and shaking out the dust. Two men thrown together at a horse show were discussing their adventures with the equine tribe. "A horse ran away with me once, and I wasn't out for two months," remarked the man with the Trilby hat.
